Sunshine, sand, and iridescent surf – summer in New Zealand truly is a seaside season. At 15,000 kilometres, New Zealand’s coastline is the ninth longest in the world, so Kiwis are spoilt for choice when it comes to a trip to the beach.

The Teak Root Coffee Table by Republic helps bring some of that remarkable coastline indoors. Resembling driftwood, each table’s unique teak wood root is left in an organic, natural state, bringing a touch of untamed nature to an interior space. Topped with a 100cm diameter polished glass tabletop, the Teak Root Coffee Table, with its Resene Swiss Caramel tone, provides a subdued yet eye-catching feature around which to gather.

Suspending the Herman Natural Pendant by Lighting Direct above the Teak Root Coffee Table makes for an attractive double feature. The light’s natural materials and Resene Colins Wicket colour-scheme, combined with its LED energy-saving capabilities, make for a breezy, relaxed aesthetic, ideal for hallways, bedroom, lounge, and living areas, as well as commercial spaces like cafés, lobbies, and restaurants.

For more intimate lighting, opt for the Anglepoise desk lamp by Citta, available in a fetchingly tropical colour reminiscent of Resene Lazy River. This special edition, designed in collaboration with British clothing designer Margaret Howell, brings a nostalgic warmth to the collection, balancing minimalist functionality with a pleasing vintage approach.

Introducing plants to interior spaces helps bring the outside in, and a touch of forest green foliage will help to balance out and ground the light, bright hues of a seaside interior. The Deluxe Bamboo from Greenery Imports, with its Resene Untamed colour palette, provides some attractive low-maintenance plant life to liven up any space.

Bamboo works in excellent counterpoint to the Alejandro Cushion from Freedom Furniture, which brings the beach indoors with its organic pattern, and which offsets bright colours with its earthy Resene Barley White hue. Complete the trio with the Waffle Knit Wool Throw by Citta, whose warm Resene Wishing Well blue is a match made in heaven for the sandy hues of the Alejandro Cushion. ●
